Sara Intermediate course

INTRODUCTION

The following 40 texts represent a rough draft of an intermediate course in Sara, a language of the Chad Republic of Africa.

The texts are to be used by the student on his own or in a small group after he has completed the beginning course of 300 hours.

Many of the texts are followed by a selected vocabulary. It is anticipated that further words and grammatical notes will be added in later revisions. The texts are not arranged either by length or by difficulty. The table of contents, which appears in Sara and English, indicates the wide variety of cultural subjects treated, but in no case was it intended to provide a detailed description of any aspect of the culture. The student is to use his partial knowledge as background for starting conversations about the various cultural subjects.

A rough English translation of each text is provided in a separate booklet. A separate set of French translations, as well as tape recordings of the Sara, will be provided in the future.

Some of the texts are provided with dialogues, accompanied by an English translation (face-to-face) to stimulate conversational fluency. These comprise a third booklet.

The texts and dialogues are intended to provide 150 hours of instruction in Sara at the intermediate level.

INTRODUCTION

The following translations into English of 40 texts in Sara are neither word-for-word nor are they polished English.

The original English translation was done by the Sara speaker, Mr. Maraby, and corrected and altered as little as possible by Mr. Thayer. In the future it is intended to provide both a literal (interlinear) translation and one in idiomatic English.

At present, additions by Mr. Thayer to the English translations are enclosed in brackets.

GREETING

Greetings are very important. In the morning everybody greets their friends. There are many kinds of greeting--shaking hands with someone, saying good morning without shaking hands, and making a sign with the hand when one is far from someone.

When people don't shake the hand of another person, one supposes that there is a misunderstanding between them. When a person doesn't greet you in the morning, you can ask him, "Do I sleep with you in the same bed?" (Are we as familiar as husband and wife?), or, "Have I done something bad to you so that you should not greet me?" Then, if this person has nothing against you, he would say, "I did not see you when you passed".

Formerly, a woman didn't stand up to greet a man, she had to kneel down when shaking his hand. When a woman did not do that she was criticizing the community (social custom). Sometimes the community would talk about her saying, "What kind of woman is this that does not obey her people?" (peoples' custom)

Of course, in Tchad, the greeting is done with the hands because this is a means of demonstrating your affection to someone.

THE FAMILY

The thing (group) which is called family is important and very large. Contrary to the European's family, the family isn't just two or three persons. The man marries and his wife gives them a child. This child will call his family (parents): father and mother. He will call the parents of his father and mother, grandparents. (He calls) the sister of his father binrem and his father's brother bau ('father'). (He calls) the sister of his mother kon ('mother'), and his mother's brother namen.

In Chad we have big families. Often the children of our whole family eat together.

The man who is family chief and all persons of his family come and eat at his home, the meal prepared by his wife.

The person who stays doesn't do anything without the authorization of the family chief. They do something only when he orders (it).

There are two kinds of family; the blood family, the adopted family.

HOW TO CHOOSE A FIELD

The ground belongs to all people and none of it belongs to one person. Everybody chooses his field where he wants. But to avoid misunderstanding between people, they choose their fields early, before the rainy season.

To choose a field isn't a speciality for a young man -- so only the old man must choose a field.

The young man who is able to till the ground can choose his field near his father, where there is the mutual aid. The strong, young man must help his father in the field.

When the man chooses his field, he works alone, but all the people who live in his home give him some help.

Before sowing something in a field, (they) cut all big trees and when the first rains arrive, the man digs and his wife sows after him.

VOCABULARY

hoe (short handle--used when kneeling)	millet
axe	sorghum
spade (long handle--used to dig when standing)	peanut
hoe (Long handle--used to hoe when standing)	kind of peanut

TO BUILD A HOUSE

To build a house requires hard work. It is the custom that the old man or father (chooses the place), then, sometimes one makes a sacrifice to the bad spirit before tracing the foundation.

The house is, in general, built after the rainy season; one makes bricks, cuts straw and timber (poles).

During the cold season, the man goes out early to do this work. He doesn't come back before about 12 o'clock.

When the straw is sufficient, he will begin to dig the earth (a pit), and his wife gives him some help with (by bringing) water to make brick.

When he finishes it (making brick--when the bricks are dry), he builds his house.

There are several kinds of houses: brick houses, straw houses, and sheet-iron houses.

TO RECEIVE A GUEST

It is the custom that sometimes a guest comes without giving notice or informing (his host) before he comes.

When the guest arrives, you must take his things and greet him. Also, all the people of your home will go out to greet the guest before doing other things.

So, the woman gives the refreshments to the guest. If the guest is accompanied by his wife, she stays with the women.

When there is an honored guest, the family chief will kill a goat for him and if he isn't important he will give to him a (live) chicken (or kill a chicken for him).

In Tchad when a guest comes to you, you must give him sufficient food.

Likewise, when a guest arrives while the people are sleeping, your wife must prepare something for him before he sleeps.

The guest will be accompanied to the middle of the way (halfway home) when he wants to leave.

VOCABULARY

THE MODERN DANCE

The modern dance is new in the country. The young men and girls like it very much. The old persons dislike this dance because it gives the young people a bad education, and they said that our ancestors didn't do it.

The young men can go to the dance but it is difficult for the girls to go to the dance if she has majority age.

Of course, they say that if a girl attends often the dances, she won't be married (she is associated with prostitution).

The girl who danced while she was young, and she didn't stay for a long time with her husband (when she was married), the community says it is the dance which gives her a bad reputation.

The old persons (parents) dislike the modern dance because it does not conform to the morals.

They say that the person is not a thing or animal to twist himself.

VOCABULARY

modern dance	to send dance	to say

TO SING

In the past, the singers were important people. Many of them accompanied the chiefs and sang for them. Also, when somebody invited people to cultivate his field, he invited the singer to give them (the proper) atmosphere (for work).

There is the professional singer, and sometimes somebody became a singer because his parents were singers.

The songs have significance; they single out something which somebody has done. It is a means to inform the people about a bad reputation; also, it encourages or congratulates a person who is kind.

They (the people) feel that the person who has done bad things can change his behavior when he hears the song.

You can remember that: sometimes the people say: "This person does bad things and one sings about him."

VOCABULARY

to cry	without
to sing	somebody

THE CLASSIC (OLD) DANCE

There were many kinds of classic dances: initiation dance (masculine), initiation dance (feminine), popular dances.

The initiation dance, masculine and feminine, concerns only the people who need to take initiation. If somebody does not belong to this group, he doesn't dance.

Then, if you didn't take initiation, you are not initiated 'ndaree'. The feminine initiation dance is reserved only for the women, the man doesn't do that.

The popular dance is for great show and enjoyment. Children, men and women, all people, come to dance.

When the dance is beginning the players come with their zylophones, tom-toms, and also with many other persons dressed and waiting (ready) to dance. The dance begins when the music is better (when the musicians are warmed up).

So, the better (dancers) receive congratulations by the women who cry out.

THE BLACKSMITH

The blacksmith is a man who makes knives, hoes, axes and many things. This profession was for the person whose father was a blacksmith.

One finds in the blacksmith's (house, usually) two apprentices. The smith's house is different from the other houses. When you stay in this house, you must remain quiet.

The child hasn't access to this place and he doesn't play in this area. His parents must pay something if the child has broken anything in this house. The parents will give a sheep or a live chicken to the blacksmith.

When a child plays near the blacksmith's house, the old people explain to him to go out of this area.

The child who throws something at the blacksmith's house hasn't a chance because he will have some problem (with the blacksmith).

THE MARKET

In the market there are many things to buy. Numerous people go to buy something and they say, "I am going to buy something at the market".

The word "suck" was introduced by the Arab, and since then we have had this word in the south of Tchad.

Now there is in each village and town a market, but the day of weekly opening is determined by the authority.

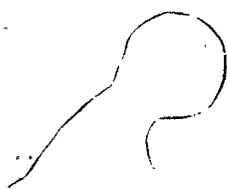

Every day, in the big city there is (a) market (day).

Who goes to the market? Of course, all the people go to market as they wish.

In the small village the men and women go to market to buy and sell their things, but in the big city the majority of people are women.

So, you can find all the things which you want: produce, meats, cloth and many other things.

To go to market is good because sometimes one can meet the people who you know. Also the market place has very interesting sounds.

HOUSEWORK

This kind of work is reserved for the women; the men can't do it. The things in the room are controlled by women, (the things) which are only the material for preparing food: to cook, to look for water, to clean the plates isn't the men's work.

Why doesn't the man give some help to his wife? Well, it is a difficult question.

In the past, the man has his work and the woman (her's) also. The work was divided between the man and woman. It is incorrect for the man to enter into the kitchen. If he entered often into the kitchen, he would be criticized by the women's group, "This man didn't receive a good education".

Many women don't like their husbands to enter into the kitchen. Sometimes she can say, "With this man it is impossible to rest quietly in the kitchen", if her husband becomes unbearable.

Also, we have one expression to qualify (describe) the man who has an interest in the kitchen, "Are you a woman that the kitchen is part of you?".

The man doesn't refuse to help his wife for an instant (temporarily); if his wife is ill, he prepares the food or heats some warm water for her.

TO LEARN A TRADE

Formerly, there were several trades to learn. Cultivation was the first trade which the young men had to learn before (all) others.

Of course, the young man began to learn to cultivate when he was at initiation, or through helping his parents to cultivate. The people said, "The young man who didn't know how to work a farm wouldn't be able to give a meal to his wife."

The young men who chose to be blacksmiths, they must work as apprentices during the odd moments to learn the technique.

Since it is difficult to make the woven straw (siding for houses or mats), certain young men learned the methods of this work and also others learned the carving at the carver's home.

Right now, they have many professions to learn but they must have a general basic education before being initiated into one profession.

I call this: toji kula, but someone else may call it: ndo kula.

THE SCHOOL

In Tchad there are schools (in every village) and many young men desire to learn because the government decided to build many schools.

Now, the young men think that it is a necessity for them to learn. When someone has a good education, he can have a good social position.

To go to school is the same as fighting (like a real battle). The parents whose children go to school are very glad because the future of their children is assured.

In the past, many parents refused (to let) their daughter go to school. In contrast, they regret now that their daughter didn't have instruction.

The parents didn't like it because many educated girls did something bad that was against the customs.

Now the situation is different; there is a change in the country. The parents understand this question. They let their girls go to the school.

Several organizations built the schools: Protestant organizations, Catholic organizations, and the government.

Schooling is free--you don't pay to enter.

TO HUNT

What does one call a hunt? One calls (something) a hunt when a person goes to the bush to kill the animals (and) birds for his food.

When the people want to go to the hunt they bring with them a throwing knife, a cutting knife, a spear or a gun, and somebody else brings his net.

Likewise, when the weather is hot, the hunters take some water with them when going on the hunt.

During the dry season the people don't go on the hunt to kill the big animals. Many of them go to kill the birds or the wild mice.

The person that one calls a hunter, is a real runner. He is the kind of hunter who likes to run down the animals. There is an expression to describe someone who tries to run: "If you are running so much, why don't you go fast to catch the bush animal?".

When someone wants to go to hunt he goes early without meeting another person because to meet somebody while you are going to hunt gives bad luck. The bad luck is such that you can't kill any animal.

Also, sometimes a man doesn't sleep with his wife when he plans to go to hunt (he will have no luck on the hunt).

THE FESTIVAL IN THE VILLAGE

There is the season and the reason to hold the festival. Certain festivals must be celebrated when the date arrives. One must not confuse the amusement of young people with the (reason for) festival.

When one wants to celebrate a festival, the people prepare the local drink (beer) and food.

All people get ready to dance, eat, and drink.

As soon as the sun begins to rise the players come to the square where the dance will be held. Everyone wears his best clothes.

On the day of the festival those people who own horses give them (the people) many things to eat and decorate them, rubbing them with oil to make their skin shine.

The drummers set up their instruments in preparation for the dance. The drummers begin, the rhythm of the beating makes wonderful sounds which penetrate the whole being of the dancers and creates in them a great excitement. At the moment when the excitement comes to its peak, several people begin to dance, the women watch (and) make a cry of approval and the men sound their hunting horns.

When noon comes several people begin to eat and drink, but the festival is not finished yet.

Such a cloud of dust arises that breathing becomes difficult.

In the afternoon the men bring out their horses and hold a race after which a prize is given to the winning horse and rider.

Festival day is a day of joy and people have no quarrels.

THE MONTH OF HARVEST

When the rainy season ends, the people begin to harvest the sorghum and millet. Sorghum and millet are grown especially in a garden, the courtyard.

There are two words for this harvesting, either "nai tede ko" or "nai kunja ko".

The poor man is aided in the harvest by the members of his household, while the rich man hires workers to do it.

The man walks ahead, cutting the stalks, and the woman follows, threshing (gathering up, picking up) the stalks.

If it is sorghum, they put it right into the bin, those who have sown millet which has been fruitful in great quantity, gather it together in a pile. This place where they have put it is called "rang".

When the harvest has been gathered, drink and food are prepared and the villagers are called to come help with the threshing.

The harvest of millet is a very interesting occasion, because there are drummers and players of the xylophones who come to play (during the work). They (the people) beat the millet with long wooden sticks to the rhythm of the music. When the threshing is done, the women gather the grain together to put it into the bin.

VOCABULARY

wooden stick used for threshing	a kind of millet

a kind of sorghum	cut, reap

TO BETROTH

To betroth and getting married aren't the same. When the young man has maturity age, he chooses a girl that he loves.

Sometimes the parents choose a girl for their boy; seldom persons (parents) do that -- only the chief's or the rich boy were obliged to betroth a girl chosen by his parents.

When a boy loves a girl, he commissions his friend or sister to ask whether or not the girl will accept his proposal before their relation begins.

Then, if the girl accepts the proposal of the boy, she answers, "bbo lee yeen ya ndigi ndaa ree" (If he desires than let him come); if she refuses she will say, "ma m'ndigi el" (I don't desire him).

When somebody wants to go to the girl's house, he doesn't go (during) the day, he will go only at evening.

The boy will be accompanied by his friend or sister when he goes to the girlfriend's house.

Of course, one room is reserved for their meeting; also, sometimes they can rest outside. The person who accompanies the boyfriend, is called "nje kula mör" or "nje pa ta mör".

When the boyfriend and his friend enter into the room, the girl gives them something to sit on. The friend of the boy can rest a few moments with them, then he leaves them.

When they finish exchanging thoughts the boy looks for his friend and they leave the girl.

THE MARRIAGE OF A MAN AND A WOMAN

When somebody awaits getting married, he betroths for several months or years before they get married.

The man (uncle, friend of boy) gives some money to the parents of the girl. The person who gives the money to the parents of the girl will be an old man only, not a young man.

The parents of the girl and the boy must be present while the old man brings the money to them. This sum will be divided between the mother's parents (maternal grandparents) and the father's parents (paternal grandparents).

The person who brings the sum to the parents of the girl will go one evening but not during the day.

The parents of the girl accept the money only when the girl gives them a favorable opinion.

After this ceremonial, the girl is considered as married; also her parents prepare the food, buy the plates and many things to accompany their girl to the boy's house. Then, the marriage becomes official.

This money given to the parents of the girl is not the price of the girl, it is the means to avoid a separation.

THE CHIEF OF THE FIELD (SOIL)

Who is the chief of the ground? The chief of the field is the first person or his grandparent who stays in a place before the other people come to stay with him.

He knows the bad and good fields. He shows to people the good places where (they) should cultivate and where they shouldn't cultivate.

Formerly, when the harvest time arrived he went everywhere to get the grain of millet or sorghum (for a kind of tax).

Now, he hasn't this privilege. The chief of the village has the authority over him; also their (the chief of the ground's) wealth is diminished.

They are considered the same as all people of the village except for having the respect as before.

CHIEF OF THE RAIN

The chief of the rain was a person who the people obeyed because he brought the rain. The people thought that he made the rain in the field.

He was able to stop the rain and bring the rain. Sometimes the people said that he made the rain to rain on his field and stopped it on the fields of other people.

When the rain stopped for several days the people asked him to do something about this situation.

Formerly, the people believed the chief of the rain but now the majority of the people don't believe him.

When the chief of the rain wanted to (make) rain, he went to the bush to look for the roots of trees (and) to burn them. After that the smoke rises toward the sky; it gives the rain after this operation. (This operation gives rain)

Don't confuse the chief of the field with the chief of the rain. They have a different job.

The chief of the rain can do the medicine but the chief of the field can't.

THE NAME

When the child is born he is not given a name immediately. The parents wait several days before naming him or her. They give a little party after having named (the child). It is his aunt who prepares the food to give to the people to eat at the occasion.

Of course, the child doesn't have the name of his father, he receives another name which has significance. All the members of the family will be present when the child receives the name. The father has the privilege to name him or her, but also sometimes the child can receive two names, one from the mother's parents and the second from the father's parents.

When the child receives the name of his grandparents that can be considered exceptional--only a minority of people do that.

Also, when the father is still alive he doesn't give his name to his child.

Now the situation is different and many people give their name to their child.

There are several kinds of names: initiation name (man), birth name, initiation name (woman), initiation name (another kind of initiation), initiation name (great formation--education), initiation name (first initiation), Arab name, European name.

THE WEATHER IN TCHAD

In Tchad the weather is very hot as in all Africa, but there is a wind. The wind gives a modification of the weather and sometimes the weather isn't hot.

If you go to Tchad for the first time you will find the weather hot because the weather in Tchad is different from (that) in Europe or America. This is a question of habit (getting used to the weather).

The people say sometimes that it is hot in Tchad; if they went into Tchad they became sick or died. This depends on the constitution of each person. One can find the person who likes the hot weather and others who don't.

The cold and hot weather is an individual problem and it is impossible to be general. In the rainy season the weather is nice and people have a good time.

The winter in Tchad is different from (the one) in Europe or America. One can call it the cold time. The cold time begins about the month which the Europeans call November and ends in February.

The cold season is sometimes very hard and many of the people use a blanket for sleeping (to sleep).

The cold time begins in the morning (and lasts) until 10:30, and after that there is sun.

The northern part of Tchad is much hotter than the southern part.

THE FOODS

The people of Chad eat the food which comes from Europe and from their field.

In Chad there is enough food for all people.

The principle foods that the majority of the population eat are millet and sorghum. There isn't a meat problem because Chad has sheep, cattle, and fish. The fish occur in the rivers Chari and Logone, but of course, the majority of fish come from the Fort Lamy River.

The price of fish in Fort Lamy isn't expensive but in other parts of Chad where the quantity of fish is less, the price is more expensive.

Also, a certain quantity of fish is exported to the other African countries to sell.

(More than anything else) cattle and sheep are raised in the north part of Chad.

Likewise, in the south part, the people produce millet, sorghum and rice, etc. The south is the field of agriculture.

Now, the people begin to cultivate the wheat.

DINNER HOUR

The people say when you have nothing in your stomach (to be starving) your head inclines. In the morning many people take bread, others eat dinner and there are also those who don't eat in the morning.

The people who don't work can eat at anytime but the workers eat at 12 o'clock and in the evening.

The situation of the farmer is such that sometimes their wives give to them food in the field; they eat sometimes one or two dinners per day.

When it is time for dinner all the people gather to eat. If a person arrives during the eating the people say: "come in".

"Ag de kete" describes "will you eat with us". The people don't refuse somebody a meal because he could say that they are bad people.

THE POST OFFICE

The post office is a house where the people send letters to their family and friends.

The post office is good because you can put your money in, and send it to other countries.

If you want to talk to somebody from a (another) country or a (another) town you can go to the post office (telephone).

Many people work in the post office: the person who sells stamps, one for the telegram, for the moneyorder and for the parcel post.

When you arrive at the post office you must speak French, Arabic, Ngambaye, Sara. It is better to speak in French to ask something because all people do not understand all the languages existing in Chad.

Concerning distribution of the letters, everybody has his postal box and sometimes several persons share it.

Formerly, when somebody wanted to send a letter to another person, he gave it to a person who travelled, but now this means is primitive and the people use the post office.

SUBMISSION (OBEDIENCE) TO THE OLD PERSONS

The obedience is considered an important thing; the young man must not say a bad word to an old man.

Formerly, where the old men stood the young man couldn't go into that place. Then when he went into that place without valid reason, the old men would say: "This child isn't obedient".

The young man, 25 years old, unmarried, who stays in (his)parents' house doesn't disobey his parent(s) because they are giving him some help.

When the young man met the old person in the way he had to submit to him and call him/her grandparent or mother, something like that. This explains that this person is able to give birth to the young man.

One expression said: "This saying is for the old men and not for the young men".

Many young men say that they are civilized (and no longer need to do this)

Also, those who come (back) from Europe or elsewhere don't submit; this gives a bad reputation because it isn't the custom in the country.

HOW TO DIG THE SHAFT

To find water requires a lot of work. To find water to drink the people dig the shaft called "bulaman" (shaft).

All people don't know how to dig a shaft, only a few of them know and the others give help.

When the people want to dig a shaft, they bring the hoes and many kinds of hoes.

One doesn't dig a shaft everywhere; they look for usually a good and special place called "dodi".

The rich men sometimes employ people to dig their shaft.

The shaft takes the name of the owner. So, when a woman goes to the shaft she says: "I am going to the (name of owner) shaft".

To dig a shaft requires about one or two weeks of work.

When the shaft workers find the water they say nothing to other people. They must do sacrifice or something like that before telling others about it.

The shaft in any place is (more) deeper than 20 or 50 arms (meters).

The owner of the shaft takes the money from the women who are going to draw the water.

THE MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION

The means of transportation, for traveling aren't numerous. Formerly, the person carried the things on his head. To carry the things on the head required a lot of work, also they (the things) are very heavy.

There aren't a lot of things to carry on the head, the foods and the sticks (firewood).

Some people utilize the horses and donkeys as a means of transportation.

When it is difficult to carry something with the horses or donkeys, many people gather to carry it.

Now many people buy a bicycle to help them in transporting; also, to carry something by bicycle isn't easy, because sometimes there is the sand on the way. The bicycle isn't able to carry a lot of things.

The rich men buy the truck for transportation now and the poor men rent the truck of rich men. Today, the planes, and trucks help the people in this heavy work. Also, a lot of people look for means to help in this way.

IN THE SHOP (STORE)

In the shop one finds many things: cloth, shoes, hats, etc.

The shop is called by some people "makaja". The market-house isn't called "makaja or kei ndogo nee". 'Kei suck' (market-house) is different from "kei ndogo nee".

When you enter into a shop you say, "Hello" to the shopkeeper before asking him about the thing which you would like to buy.

In some shops the prices of cloth and other things is marked (on the object).

When the prices are not marked, you can say: "Give me this thing to buy (sell it to me), and he gives (sells it) to you.

Many people know before (hand) the things which they would like to buy. They ask, let me see this thing.

The shopkeeper shows the thing to his customer. Also, sometimes the customer will buy or go to another shop.

THE WAYS

There are the small and large ways. The large ways are for the cars and bicycles and the small for the pedestrians. Some ways are impassable by car, so if it is impassable you can ask for a horse.

To make a way (road) requires a lot of work. In the rainy season the water on the way becomes bad. When the rainy season is beginning to end, the people repair the bad places of the way.

Now the people don't work alone, the caterpillar (tractor) helps them: when there is work for several days, the caterpillar finishes it rapidly.

During the rainy season the government employes a waykeeper to control (traffic) when it is raining. He lets the cars pass only when the rain stops.

TAXI

Now there are many cabs in the town; if you want it to come look for you and go where you want, you can call it up.

Some cabs are expensive and others (are) not.

Before you enter the cab, you must ask his price.

When you enter you tell the cabman where you want to go. If you don't tell him, he doesn't know where you want to go.

Also, sometimes the price of the cab depends on the distance and the number of persons who take (hire) the cab.

When you want a cab without a driver, the owner will ask you (for) two payments: one for a guarantee which will be given back to you if you return it without accident, the other price is the actual rent.

Before he gives you the cab, he will ask you for several cards: identity card, passport and other cards.

The cab is a car which can bring you where you want and rapidly with a payment.

THE THINGS FOR INFORMATIONS

(THE MEANS OF INFORMATION)

There are several means of information. If you want to buy it, it is good to go to the shop.

The building for the transmitter is located in Fort Lamy.

When an event happens in another country, the news spreads and the persons who have small radios hear.

Many people buy radios to get information and listen to singing.

The means of information give the news and education. Some news of another country is transported by the wind and you hear, this is a very good thing.

When you give the news to people, sometimes several of them will ask you: "Where did you get this news? Did you hear it on the radio or did somebody tell you?".

When they ask you like that, you can answer where you are getting that news or give them the name of the person who gave you this news.

There are several means of information. If you know how to read the newspapers, you can understand or if you don't, you can hear the news from the radio.

THE HOSPITAL

The hospital is a house where someone sick goes to take some medicine.

When you go to the hospital, the doctor asks you many questions to learn what kind of illness you have. Then, you tell him what bothers you: cough, diarrhea, fever, smallpox and all that you have.

When he finishes asking questions, he gives you a prescription to give to a nurse who is in charge of medicines.

The nurse gives you the medicine which is described by the doctor. Sometime when you are very sick they will keep you in the hospital.

In the hospital, when you are hospitalized, someone gives you the injections and liquid-medicines to drink.

The hospital gives life to the people. Many people who are very sick when they come to a hospital take the medicines--they become cured.

SUNDAY

When the Sunday arrives, the people begin to wash their clothes and hang them in the houses; you can only see the whiteness of clothes.

Many of the women begin to wash their room because it is probable that visitors will come.

Sunday morning many people wear clothes to go to church. Some don't go to church, they sleep in their house or do nothing.

On Sunday, many people rest in their home, some take walks, (travel by) car and bicycle, and others have a good time.

Sunday is very noisy; the people who don't like the noisy place take their car or bicycle and go out of town.

FIELD HOCKEY

The field hockey game is for the young men. When the young men want to play this game, they have two groups and each group has his field.

What is called "njao"? "Njao" is the seed of the king of tree called "gaira" (which is used as the ball) which the young men play on the way.

The better runner only can be selected to play this game; the person who is not a good runner will not be accepted.

Each person brings his stick called "ngöl njae".

This game is the same as hockey which the Europeans play in their countries.

The young men don't play everyday and all the time.

When they want to play, they chose an afternoon or after the end of a rain.

Usually, they play this game during the beginning of the rain season.

The field hockey is a joy and good time for the young men.

Now several of the young men don't play this game because they have a game that Europeans called football.

MR. ANTONIO KNOWS HOW TO SPEAK SARA

Mr. Antonio is in the house?

Yes, will you wait a little, because he is in the dining room.

Ho! Mr. Antonio, how are you? I think I disturb you in your work?

No, you don't disturb me, I am very glad to see you. Are you alright?

I am alright. I have something to ask you.

You know that I am here to help you, what do you want me to do for you?

I received a letter today in Sara and it is difficult for me to understand it.

I think it isn't difficult, what is difficult?

I don't understand that which he says.

He says, do you send his money to him?

I understand very well now--I thank you too much.

You're welcome, when can I see you again?

This evening, after dinner I can meet with you.

Good-bye

TO FISH

Fishing belongs to the fishermen and not to non-fishmen.

When the fishermen are going to fish, they talk people of other villages into fishing with them.

The day of fishing, the women and men bring the calabash, spears, the nets and several other things.

Several of the fishers fish by rowboat; others don't.

When they finish fishing, the owner of the river takes some fish from the fishers as payment (for the use) of his river.

Also, in some rivers nobody can fish; if you want to fish, you must give it something like a sacrifice before fishing.

DEATH AND BURIAL

When somebody dies, if she is a woman the horn will sound four times, and (if a) man, three times.

The members of the family weep wherever (they are on hearing the horn). They give the news to the people who are far from the village to come to the burial.

Formerly, the old men said: "The young person didn't die without a plausible reason".

So, when a young person died, the old men gathered and looked for the cause of the death.

When a married woman died, the members of her family would give a trouble to (confront) her husband (and) look for the reason of the death. The corpse of the woman would be buried in the country of her family or sometimes the husband asked to bury her in his country.

The death of a married man is the same as (the one of) a married woman but there is a small difference. His wife would be severely accused, because many a woman had given poison to her dead husband.

Because of this, sometimes the wife receives insults and the knocks from the man's family.

Many people come to weep when somebody dies, during this time, some men are hollowing out (ground) in which to put the corpse.

The people will stay to weep during three days for a man and four days for a woman before leaving the place.

THE FIRST INITIATION

The young men must take the first initiation before the second--called "lao".

The young men seven and eight years old wait for lao after the first initiation.

What is called the first initiation? (take) the first initiation is the giving (of) the good education to the young men. During the first initiation the young men can't see or stay near their mother, and of course, near (any) woman, because this is a custom that the person who takes initiation doesn't stay near women.

The old men give some education during initiation so that you are able to do something or to protect someone, when you have a difficult moment.

The initiated young man must stay quiet and not do the bad action as non-initiated. He doesn't think of help from other people.

The first (Initiation) will be done only once per year. The initiated young men aren't called by their family name but "lae-uman".

THE CYCLING RACE IN CHAD

This sport was introduced by European people, and the people of Chad like it very much.

When the day of cycling race arrives many people stand near the way to see the cyclists and remark on which of them will win.

In some villages, the cyclist doesn't have the real bicycle for the course, they use sometimes the ordinary bicycle.

Except in Fort Lamy where the cyclists have good equipment, and do the training to be ready for the course.

During the race many persons encourage the cyclists by shouting.

Also some persons carry water with them to give to tired cyclists to drink.

Now many young men are interested in cycling.

SARA' INTERMEDIATE COURSE
(DIALOGUES & TRANSLATIONS)

September, 1966

FIRST DRAFT

Prepared under the auspices of the Peace Corps through Contract #PC-82-1917.

INTRODUCTION

The following set of dialogues in Sara accompanied by an English translation (face-to-face) is provided for practice in conversation. The speakers are referred to as A and B. Often B has an alternate answer or must supply some information. These dialogues can be used both before and after reading the texts and their translations. But they are most valuable when used in group instruction with the aid of a native speaker or a tape recorder.

It is intended that the learners imagine themselves in the cultural setting as they memorize and drill each dialogue.
